

Basic Institute in Conflict Management and Mediation

Audience: Professionals in any field: Legal, educational, governmental, religious, commercial, or non-profit.

Objectives: This 30 hour training is designed for those who wish to acquire basic understandings and skills for managing and resolving conflict. The Institute provides valuable insights and strategies for dealing with interpersonal and group conflicts in the workplace, church, school, or home settings.

Methods & Materials: Drawing from the social sciences and Biblical examples, theory, methods, and practical skills in listening and mediation are included. A training manual of models, charts, readings, and worksheets for reference and practice is the main text.

Summer 2010

August 2-6

One Week Intensive

8:30 am - 4:00 pm

What participants say:

"The Basic Institute is one of the best basic mediation training workshops in California. I would especially recommend it for lawyers and other professionals wanting to understand human conflict and peacemaking processes from a holistic, multi-disciplinary perspective. Ron and Dalton are inspiring teachers, trainers, and peacemakers. Every lawyer should take this course."

Doug Noll, Esq. Peacemaker, Noll Associates

At Castle Keep, we will be having family conferencing where we try to gather stakeholders—family members, concerned neighbors, friends, clergy, and others—to find a way to resolve the issues that are contributing to the at-risk status of the family elder. The methods Ron Claassen used in the final group mediation role playing session can be adapted to our family conferencing. This was a particularly useful part of the Basic Institute.

Cynthia Benzler, Castle Keep Elder Abuse Prevention Program of the Central Valley, Inc.

Trainers:

Ron Claassen, D.Min., teaches courses and leads workshops in mediation, restorative justice, and restorative discipline systems as part of the graduate faculty at FPU, in the community, and in international settings. He is director of the Center for Peacemaking.

Dalton Reimer, Ph.D., Faculty emeritus and senior associate of the Center for Peacemaking. He has served in many roles in the university from faculty to academic administration. He is co-founder of the Center for Peacemaking, together with Ron Claassen.
